*Richard L. Rones
President
Americo Manufacturing Company, Inc.*

Richard L. Rones is the President of Americo and shares jointly with Mr. Shutzberg in the responsibility of running the company. He joined Americo in June 1986 after graduating from the University of Georgia with a BBA degree in Finance. Mr. Rones spends most of his time in managing some of the top customer relationships for the company. He also negotiates pricing and payment terms with Americo's prime vendors.

Richard has held positions in every department within the organization. He was instrumental in creating the Logo Mat business, which has grown exponentially in the past decade. He was also responsible for streamlining several of the manufacturing processes deployed in the factory and worked with our plant engineers to oversee the design, construction and installation of three (3) nonwovens production lines. These new lines increased the productivity within the plant and reduced the cost of manufacturing on some materials by as much as 40% of the original cost.

In 2002, Mr. Rones was credited for developing the roofing segment of the business. It remains one of the strategic divisions within the organization today. The purchasing power created by the increased volume of materials used in the production of these roofing products has benefited all other non-woven divisions in creating pervasive decreases in the overall cost of various raw materials used in each of these divisions.
